Intangible heritage

Škofja Loka Passion Play

(inscribed onto the UNESCO Representative List of Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity since 2016)

- The original text by Friar Romuald (preserved at the capuchin Monastery Archives and Library in Škofja Loka) dates from 1721, making it the oldest Slovene dramatic text in existence.
- Fragments of the play were reconstructed in 1936 and 1965, the complete play was performed in 1999, 2000, 2009 and 2015.
- 1,200 participants (800 actors, 80 horsemen, etc.) presented the Passion in four locations in Škofja Loka, to over 30,000 spectators.
- The event should take place in March 2021, on the occasion of the even's 300th anniversary, however, due to pandemic it was postponed to 2025.

With good tools half the work is done

In the 19th century, the shoemakers of Tržič made shoes in workshops which were located in the central part of large houses. Footwear was made by hand. There are various sayings which are connected with their work and are still used today.
