June 2017 | 2nd thematic Workshop

From what we need to what we have

We need the best available evidence with which to answer a set of specific questions:

- evaluating policies and the fulfilment of goals established in strategic documents and regulations.
- understanding of the links between biodiversity (species/habitats) and the condition of the ecosystem (vitality, resilience and productivity) and between the condition of the ecosystem and its capacity to deliver ecosystem services.
- understanding past and potential future change in a key thematic or sectoral field.

The workshop will develop around three subjects

- 1. The information we have, is it fit-for-use based on our requirements?
- 2. Information needed to respond to the obligations contained in the regulations, strategic documents and policies
- 3. Innovation opportunities: new tools for the capture and understanding of the information

June 14th - Presentations

Good practices: A good practice is a process or methodology that has been shown to work well, succeeds in achieving its objective(s), and therefore can be recommended as a model. An explanation of the greatest difficulties experienced in putting them into practice and how these have been overcome is highly recommended.

Needs: It is about exposing what you want to do and you do not know how or putting questions on the table for further discussion.

June 15th - Discussions

- strengths, weaknesses, threats, opportunities
- how are problems being solved
- what challenges remain
- relationship between public authorities in charge of policies and those who create the necessary data and information

Things to keep in mind

- Do not forget to sign on the signature sheet. Signatures are necessary for justification of expenses.
- 14 presentations: each 20 min. max. Get ideas for tomorrow's discussions
- 2 breaks:
 - coffee:10:45-11:15
 - lunch:13:00-14:00
- Volunteers are welcome:
 - to control the duration of the presentations
 - to take notes: the notes will be sent to the organization to help ensure that all the ideas discussed are taken into account in the writing of the chapter of the technical document and there are no misunderstandings with the language
 - to ensure that the debate focuses on selected issues and is not dispersed and that no major issues remain outside the debate
 - video-interviews: to explain in 1 min why are you here, what do you want to get, if this workshop is interesting for you ...
