The meeting was held at the processing unit of Porto Lagos. The project's local coordinator presented to the fishermen some of the best practices that have already been highlighted during the project's ILEEEs. They were happy to know that they are part of such an ambitious project although they emphasized that it would take a lot of effort to bring fishermen of different geographical backgrounds under pursuing a common goal. They expressed a particular interest in fishing tourism since as they said they already have people visiting them at the lagoons at no cost and they can totally understand how this could make their profession more sustainable. They also invited us to a small fishing event they organize in September so we could meet them at their 'natural environment'. The meeting ended with the main problems that fishermen face nowadays and how Cultural
