

Jaunumi

VRi dalēs pieredzē inovāciju ekosistēmas attīstīšanā reģionos

27.10.2020

Tweet Like 0

27. oktobrī Vides risinājumu institūta izpilddirektore Inese Suija-Markova piedalīsies tiešsaistes konferencē INNO INFRA SHARE, lai dalītos ar VRi pieredzi Vidzemes reģiona pētniecības un inovāciju ekosistēmas attīstīšanā.

Konferences mērķis ir pievērst uzmanību Eiropas reģionu sadarbībai un tās nozīmei spēcīgas pētniecības un inovāciju attīstīšanā. Tajā piedalīsies vairāku inovāciju tīklu pārstāvji, lai demonstrētu digitālo rīko potenciālu, iespējas, kā arī šķēršļus starpreģionu sadarbību veidošanā un stiprināšanā.

I.Suija-Markova kopā ar Vidzemes plānošanas reģiona pārstāvi Kristapu Ročānu dalīsies pieredzē Vidzemes reģiona inovāciju ekosistēmas attīstīšanā. I.Suija-Markova ir pieredzējusi zināšanu ietilpīga biznesa un inovāciju vadītāja. Viņas vadībā VRi izstrādā inovatīvus risinājumus dabas resursu apsaimniekošanai un ilgtspējīgai izmantošanai, pielietojot starpdisciplināru pieeju un jaunākās tehnoloģijas.

October 27, 2020 | 10.00-12.00 CET
Online platform Zoom

INTERREGIONAL COOPERATION FOR INNOVATION

10:00 Welcome and introduction by the moderator Alison Hunter

10:10 1st keynote
Barriers and opportunities for inter-regional innovation networks
Kevin Morgan, Professor of Governance and Development at Cardiff University
Kevin Morgan is Professor of Governance and Development at Cardiff University, where he is also the Dean of Engagement. He has worked with the EC for more than 20 years on regional innovation policy issues and he was part of DG Regio's Smart Specialisation Expert Panel.

10:30 INNO INFRA SHARE project partner presentations

University-industry cooperation in a startup-minded region Alto Lilles, Tartu City Government <small>Alto is the Head of Department of Business Development for Tartu City Government. He has 15 years of experience in the fields of Creative Industry, ICT, Media, and Business Consulting. He is working at the Tartu City Government helping the companies to grow and generates new ideas how to bring the entrepreneurship to a new level in Tartu. Alto is currently finalising his doctoral thesis on linkages between regional capabilities and university-industry cooperation.</small>	Impact of the current situation on interregional cooperation Vojtech Helikar, Central European Institute of Technology <small>Vojtech has joined Central European Institute of Technology in Brno in 2018. Between 2013 - 2018, he was director of the Trade and Investment Foreign Offices in Sydney and Stockholm under the Czech National Trade Promotion Agency. Vojtech graduated from the University of Economics in Prague, and started his career at Czech Business and Investment Development Agency.</small>
Facing the future of innovation support in Europe - what we have learned with INNO INFRA SHARE about future challenges of innovation in Europe Katharina Schöps, Chemnitz University of Technology <small>Katharina is more than 20 years active as consultant and researcher in the fields of regional development, innovation management, SME support, internationalisation. She has gained extensive experiences particularly in the fields of building innovation management capacities in SMEs, the support of internationalisation and innovation projects of research organisations as well as of SMEs and clusters and in several regional development projects. Presently, she is working as EU project coordinator of MEDISE, a Federal Cluster of Excellence and as senior innovation management consultant of Enterprise Europe Network.</small>	Development of regional innovation ecosystem in Vidzeme region Kristaps Ročāns, Vidzeme Planning Region Inese Sujā-Markova, Institute for Environmental Solutions <small>Kristaps is a Project Manager and Expert in Vidzeme Planning Region and also acts as a managing director of Latvian Food Bioeconomy Cluster. His professional expertise areas are in the fields of regional innovation ecosystem and cluster development, bioeconomy, international project management and regional development. Inese is a Managing Director of Institute for Environmental Solutions Institute is developing solutions for natural resource management and sustainable use of land by applying multidisciplinary and technological progress. Inese is experienced professional in management of knowledge-intensive business services and innovation management.</small>

11:15 2nd keynote
European Digital Innovation Hubs – a European network for interregional cooperation
Sandro D'Elia, Programme Officer at European Commission (EC)
Sandro D'Elia is involved in the definition and implementation of European policy in the area of digitalisation of industry, with a specific focus on digital technologies for sustainability. He evaluates, negotiates, controls and supports research and innovation projects financed by the EC. He contributes to the drafting of the research and innovation work programme and to external communication of policy and research activities, and represents the EC in the governing board of ESSEI.

11:35 The state of play of interregional cooperation - Interreg Europe Joint Secretariat

11:50 Conclusions by the moderator Alison Hunter

Uzzini vairāk par tiešsaistes konferenci un starpreģionu sadarbības iespējām inovāciju jomā šeit.

Atpakaļ