BiblioMat Regional Library “Pencho Slaveykov”, Varna

New service for the subscribers of Regional library “Pencho Slaveykov”, Varna

Idea: The library developed a number of online services. However, the possibility of borrowing books remains a service concentrated during the working hours of the institution and requiring the presence of a librarian. The new BiblioMat service seeks to minimize this inconvenience and gives access to library funds 24/7.

Target group: All registered readers.

Description: BiblioMat service gives real opportunity to the readers to borrow home literature outside the library's opening hours. The new service is a technical solution placed at the entrance of the library, representing locker cells with programmable electronic lock with code. After finding the desired book through the search engine and making an online request, the reader has the option to choose where to get his book from - whether on site from the library or through a BiblioMat. When selecting the second option, the user receive a message or e-mail containing the cell number from which to receive the request and an access code. The access code is associated with the reader's card number. Then the reader has 48 hours to pick up the requested books.

Use of the service: The users of the Varna Library regularly use the service „online request”, so the requested books can be written on their readers' card and borrowed at a time convenient for them but still during the working time of the library. And here is the difference by including the BiblioMat service when the users define themselves the time for picking up the requested books. The lock is programmed to lock itself after a certain period of time so that the reader does not have re-access to the cell used. For security reasons, video surveillance is provided.

EUROREGION PLEVEN - OLT

“Pencho Slaveykov” Regional Library was the first in Bulgaria to introduce this new service. The director of the library shares that the idea originated from a similar system used by several courier companies in our country. Subsequently, the technology was borrowed from the Shumen Regional Library "Stiliyan Chilingirov".

The future plans related to expanding the services by placing such BiblioMats in different main locations in the city.
