Digital government

Why digital government?

*digital public services reduce administrative burden on businesses and citizens by making their interactions with public administrations faster and efficient, more convenient and transparent, and less costly

*seamless cross-border and digital public services contribute to competitiveness and make the EU a more attractive place to invest and live in public administrations and public institutions in the EU be open, efficient and inclusive, providing borderless, personalised, user-friendly, end-to-end digital public services to all citizens and businesses in the EU

Policy Framework Policy priorities (Pillars)

'...more can be done to modernise public administration, achieve cross-border interoperability and facilitate easy interaction with citizens....' (DSM Communication)

eGovernment Action Plan 2016-2020

Modernising public administration with ICT, using key digital enablers

Enabling cross-border mobility with interoperable digital public services

Facilitating digital interaction between administrations and citizens / businesses for high-quality public services

20 actions identified in this Action Plan
Further actions may be proposed either by the Commission or by stakeholders, including Member States.

01 Digital by default

02 Once-only principle

03 Inclusiveness and accessibility

04 Openness & transparency

05 Cross-border by default

06 Interoperability by default'

07 Trustworthiness & security

Once-only principle

- public administrations should ensure that citizens and businesses supply the same information only once to a public administration;
- public administration offices take action if permitted to internally re-use this data, in due respect of data protection rules
 - Introducing once-only options in digital public services by collaboration and data exchange, including with other countries
 - Single Digital Gateway Regulation

Digital by default

- public administrations should deliver services digitally as the preferred option
- through a single contact point or a one-stop-shop and via different channels
 - Speeding up the implementation of the eIDAS regulation
 - Making digital public services secure and identifiable by using the eIDAS framework for qualified electronic trust services

The eIDAS Regulation

Electronic identification (eID) and trust services are defined under the Regulation (EU) No 910/2014 (known as "eIDAS Regulation").

Within the scope of the Regulation, trust services refer to:

- Electronic signature;*
- Electronic seal;*
- Electronic time stamp;*
- Electronic registered delivery service (ERDS);*
- Website authentication certificates.*

Digital SMEs

The Benefits of eID and Trust Services for SMEs

The infographic features a man in a light blue shirt and dark blue pants, carrying a briefcase and scratching his head, symbolizing confusion or a need for clarity. To his right, the word "eIDAS" is written in large, bold, blue letters. Below this, a vertical list of seven trust services is presented, each with a small icon and a label: eID (electronic ID), eS (eSignature), eT (eTimestamp), eSe (eSeal), ERDS (eDelivery), and QWAC (Website Authentication Certificates). The bottom of the image shows a video player interface with a progress bar at 0:17 / 2:56 and various control icons.

- However, deep understanding or knowledge is not apparent.
- Only 14% indicated that they were familiar with the EU Trust Mark.

Have you heard about any of the following solutions before?

Sectoral use cases

How solutions can integrate into workflows

Integration of eID and trust service solutions are enabled by leveraging user experience, operational efficiency, and security and liability.

Most use cases with a clear added-value are currently centred around contracting or processing high-value or high-risk transactions.

- Financial sector benefits from heightened security assurances and digital on boarding opportunities
- Online retail benefits from strong customer identification in the case of high-risk transactions;
- Transport sector benefits from improved contracting procedures between parties;
- Professional services also benefit from improved contracting procedures but also high assurance levels for legally binding

- The ideal situation is to seamlessly integrate solutions on all steps of the supply chain (both demand and supply side)

Example of a sectoral use case
